INTRODUCTION

The records contained in Record Group 241, Office of the Attorney General and Reporter, span the period 1906 through 1969, although the bulk of the collection is concentrated in the period 1930-1967. The record group consists of correspondence, court records, docket books and subject files, reflecting the various activities of the Office of the Attorney General and Reporter.

The records contained in this collection came to the Tennessee State Library and Archives through the State Records Center, although two cubic feet of material was obtained directly from the Office of the Attorney General. The final disposition of these records was determined by the Records Disposition Authorization (RDA) process. In accordance with the RDA, all material in Record Group 241 has been microfilmed and the originals were disposed of by state approved methods.

Record Group 241 consists of approximately 88 cubic feet. Records removed and destroyed during processing were duplicate copies and routine office materials. State publications were removed during processing and added to the library holdings. There are no restrictions to access.

A small addition was made in 2015 consisting of 2 bound volumes of memorandum opinions and their accompanying index-digest prepared by R.T. Shannon. These unpublished memorandum opinions cover the dates September 1902 to June 1914 and were bound for the personal use of the Comptroller of the Treasury in 1914. The opinions relate to various agencies and topics, however, and are not solely related to the Comptroller of the Treasury. These volumes do not appear on the RG 241 microfilm but are shelved in hard copy form.

Researchers may wish to consult other holdings in the Tennessee State Library and Archives concerned with the Office of Attorney General and Reporter. Record Group 18 covers the activities of the agency from 1899 through 1912. The opinions issued by the Attorney General from 1872 until 1902 may be found in Record Group 109.

THE OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL AND REPORTER

The Tennessee constitution provides that the judicial power of the State is to be vested “in one Supreme Court, and in such circuit, chancery and other inferior courts, as the Legislature shall from time to time, ordain and establish.” The judicial structure of the State consists of the courts with purely local jurisdiction, such as courts of general sessions and county courts; regional and district courts of original jurisdiction empowered to adjudicate civil and criminal cases and cases in equity, such as circuit courts and chancery courts; and the appellate courts, including the court of appeals for civil cases and the State’s highest court, the Supreme Court, for both civil and criminal cases. The constitution also provides for an Attorney General and Reporter for the State in the judicial department and a district attorney for each circuit for which a judge having criminal jurisdiction is provided by law.

The constitution of Tennessee provides “an Attorney General and Reporter for the State shall be appointed by the judges of the Supreme Court and shall hold his office for a term of eight years.” This constitutional provision has been implemented by statutes that created the legal department of the State with the Attorney General and Reporter as the executive head. The Attorney General is authorized to appoint assistants who together with the Attorney General, constitute the legal department. In all cases where the interest of the State requires it, at the permission of the Governor, additional counsel to the Attorney General is employed.

In the time period covered in this record group, according to the Tennessee Blue Book of 1948, the primary duties of the Attorney General, in person or by assistant were: to attend to all business of the State, both civil and criminal, in the Supreme Court and to represent the State in all matters before the Criminal Court of Appeals; represent the interest of the State in all suits against State officials arising from the discharge of their official duties; to give legal advice with respect to their official duties to the Governor, Secretary of State, Treasurer, Comptroller and all other State officials, when called on to do so; to examine and certify all bills of cost in the Supreme Court in which the State is interested; and to report the decisions of the Supreme Court under rules and regulations as may be provided by the court. It is also the duty of the Attorney General to prosecute or defend any civil or criminal suits in the United States Supreme Court in which the State may have been a party.

The legal department of the Office of the Attorney General and Reporter also approved: the title of land acquired by the various departments of the State; the form and legality of leases of land for use by the State; the bonds of trust companies acting as depositories of State securities; and the form and legality of all administrative rules and regulations of all the departments and agencies of the State. By special assist the Attorney General represented all regulatory and registration boards of the State.

The Attorney General served on the following: the Board of Claims; the Public Records Commission; the Board of Pension Examiners; the Commission to Purchase and Acquire Federal Property; a committee comprised of the Governor, Comptroller and the Attorney General, to compromise and settle actions at law; the State Building Commission; the State Judicial Conference; the Tennessee Code Commission; the State Oil and Gas Board; the Committee to Approve of Disposal of Surplus Land; and the committee composed of the Governor, Secretary of State, and Attorney General, to compare polls and election returns and declare the person elected in elections of judicial officers, district attorneys, members of Congress and United States Senators.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

Record Group 241, The Office of the Attorney General and Reporter, spans the period 1906 through 1969, although the bulk of the collection is concentrated within the period 1930 through 1967. The collection consists of approximately 88 cubic feet of material. In accordance with the Records Disposition Authorization (RDA), the collection was microfilmed and the originals destroyed.

The collection is composed of correspondence, court cases, docket books, opinions and subject files. The correspondence is general in nature and is concerned with routine inquiries sent to the Attorney General, especially regarding the opinions of the constitutionality of certain issues. There is a great deal of correspondence from the assistant Attorney's General, but the largest amount of correspondence is from George F. McCanless, who served as Attorney General from 1954 until 1969. There is very little correspondence in the collection before 1954. The remainder of the correspondence is business correspondence related to the various activities of the Attorney General.

A large portion of the collection is made up of court cases. The court cases are those heard in the Tennessee Supreme Court from 1919 through 1969, although there are many gaps in the years covered. Originally, the court files were grouped according to a docket number issued by the court clerk, but due to the fact that the cases were not indexed, the processor chose to arrange the cases in chronological order and then in alphabetical order by case name. The cases provide important information regarding the legal system of Tennessee in the twentieth century as well as an intriguing look at crime and punishment in the state. The opinions, which are few in number, represent the Attorney General's rulings on the constitutionality of state law. They date from 1906 through 1933. The docket books are handwritten appointment books setting the time and date when a case was to be heard.

The bulk of the collection consists of the subject files. The subject files correspond to the various activities of the Attorney General throughout the years, including the boards and commissions in which the Attorney General had an interest. The subject files are arranged in alphabetical order, and may include correspondence, handwritten notes, pamphlets, or other materials. All state publications were removed and deposited in the holdings of the State Library. Photographs were photocopied and the originals placed in the Tennessee State Library and Archives photographic collection. Possibly the most important files are those dealing with the desegregation issue in the 1950s.

A small addition was made in 2015 consisting of 2 bound volumes of memorandum opinions and their accompanying index prepared by R.T. Shannon. These unpublished memorandum opinions cover the dates September 1902 to June 1914 and were bound for the personal use of the Comptroller of the Treasury in 1914. The opinions relate to various agencies and topics, however, and are not solely related to the Comptroller of the Treasury. These volumes do not appear on the RG 241 microfilm but are shelved in hard copy form.

Record Group 241 may be beneficial to the researcher if used in conjunction with other record groups concerning The Office of the Attorney General and Reporter. Although some of the material is routine in nature, the researcher may use the collection to well document the growth of this important state agency.
